Run No: 1568
Hares: Boo & Quickie
Run Site: Junction of Lorong Chuan & Tai Yuan Heights

Scribe Report: Scribe reports? Is this new or am I imagining that I am back in Lion City Hash during the 1990's. Whatever....

The bus for the National Day Run, full of red and white clad runners, left a bit after 6:00. That's a bad start. The driver took us on the scenic route to try to throw us off the scent, which only delayed the start until around 6:20. Once the bus finally stopped in the area of Sing Ming, the front of the pack managed to start running long before half the bus was empty - another bad sign but it was all uphill from here. By the time I caught up to the front runners (my usual spot), we had already circumnavigated the auto body shops near the LTA and bashed through a small garden on the hill below the Bright Hill field. Just to feed the Hungry Ghosts, we burned our way through the crematoria, prayed that we would not get caught in the temple and urned a shortcut through the columbarium (which, interestingly, I just discovered was neither spelled nor pronounced as "come and bury 'em").

Crossing Sing Ming Avenue, we headed for Bishan Park, which, according to the Guinness Book of World Records, is the longest park in the world that is urban, adjoins a river with the same name as a subway station and has a length to width ratio of greater than 30:1. Here the pack got strung out longer than the park itself but fortunately, someone had left a discarded FHM magazine for me to read until the next check. Wisely, I ended up in the drain (a.k.a. the Kallang River) in time to join my usual running kakis at the front again. After rounding the MRT sleeping quarters, we hit the best part of the run. Here, in a tunnel under the CTE, we were treated to some abandoned roads as well as what appears to be the only place in Singapore with graffiti. I am not sure when all the New Yorkers came here to do the artwork but it reminded me of home. How sweet. There was a great stretch of run along the old Woodleigh water pipeline before cutting through some kampong roads to the lower end of Lorong Chuan. Those runners that felt some obligation to do the whole run then followed paper to the left going through the Serangoon Gardens Estate while the smarter ones just trudged straight up the street to collect our survivor prize of a nice t-shirt. Despite starting at 6:20, everyone was in by about 7:30 and it was roundly, soundly and profoundly voted a good run. The circle lasted almost as long as the food at the on-site BBQ. Good run, good shirt, good circle, good food, good drink, good company, good time, good God - I've gone on too long. Thanks Boo and Quickie!

Circle Report: An unusually long Harriet circle. Please excuse the bits missing due to Writer's Cramp.

Circle verdict: Good Run. Too many drains.

Virgins: Peter – who was obviously told to dress for the hash. Run outfit – white shirt and safari shorts; circle outfit – blue checked shirt, cargo shorts. The circle insisted on a hash tshirt, which Too Easy kindly provided, together with assistance in dressing Peter, who was afraid of losing his virginity right there in the circle.

Visitors: Flutter – demonstrating use of his cargo shorts, beer supplies in each pocket.
Cynthia – appropriately dressed, no cargo.

The Dick: Not here.

The Tits: Fat Crashing Bastard took them home and apparently forgot them. Claimed he was mending them, and had some convoluted story about a misunderstanding with Too Easy. What is it with you guys that you need to hang on to these aids for more than a week?

Lipstix: Sex Pit called out usual suspects Skidmark, Too Polite, Gypsy (No way, he said), Phone Sex, Comes in Turd, Limp Member, and 'no hash name' Leonard, for the usual pushing, shoving and general racing ahead without a woman.
Zipp was so upset at this continuing disrespect of the Harriets that she gave them Down Downs with Coke and lectured that Coke would be all that they got if they continued with this behaviour.

AOB: Confucius called out the hares and asked which 'new directory' they used. She couldn't find the Map Reference in the 2003 directory she used.

Mother Mary also called out the hares and asked where Friday's run would be. "Tagore Lane" was the bewildered reply from the diligent Boo, who is laying runs for every hash this week. "Then," Mary wanted to know, "why did it say 'On On LCH3' along the canal?"

Fat Crashing Bastard called in Gypsy. FCB noted that it was recently the Belgian National Day and recalled the legend about the boy who saved the country by sticking his finger in the dyke. (Confusion about his legends there). FCB's assistant Slocum witnessed Gypsy sticking some body part in the canal apparently, and asked, "Is it hard?" Answer, "Yes, it's very hard."

Sybil also had a bone to pick about crowding by the FRBs. Climbing out of the canal near the Bishan MRT Depot, 'no hash name' Leonard forgot that ladies should always be in front, and hit Sybil on the bum, saying come on, On Up! Leonard got a Down Down, and also a new hash name, 'On Up'. However, Not Tonight noticed that Leonard had his hand in his shorts pocket while in the circle, and there was an apparent vibrating and flashing light from the area. She proposed, 'Glow In The Dick' instead. However, the circle smelt blood and was stampeded into choosing 'On Up'. (Try again next week, Not Tonight, when cooler heads may prevail).

Deeper Valley called in the hares and all Singaporeans for a Down Down to celebrate National Day. Boo, Quickie, Zipp, Hooray, Jack Off, After Shock, Squire, Sybil, Carnal Knowledge, Double Back, Father Anus, Mother Mary and Dances with Kerbs drank the beer and patriotically sang the National Anthem in the circle. Loose Change was also included for sharing her birthday with Singapore.

Stiffy called Gypsy in again. Apparently, Gypsy was taking a leak in front of a Buddhist temple when On On was called in his direction. Sex Pit and Comes in Turd turned exhaustedly in that direction, while Gypsy went, "Nyah,nyah- nyah , nyah, nyah," (Or something along those lines). But then it was a false trail, and On On was back in the direction where the Pack was. Gypsy's turn to stagger on.

Stiffy also called Sex Pit and Skidmark in. Neither was wearing tonight's run shirt, which the hares had advertised as elasticated and able to fit both Skidmark and Flat Phone. Since Flat Phone wasn't there, Sex Pit was her look alike. Both were dismissed and Stiffy then called in the hares again for misrepresentation.

Not Tonight asked Boo, as a lawyer, what sacriligious means. Singaporean's are normally very sensitive about other religions. However tonight, the run went through several religious institutions, and to cap it all, there was flour placed on an elephant icon at one temple. Boo claimed in mitigation that he thought he was making an offering.

Zipp said that Haberdash was doing a roaring trade tonight with new stocks. The board shorts were very nice and she asked Lee in to model them. Lee had been concerned when she noticed Zipp looking at the shorts and explained to the simple, inexperienced Singaporean to be careful when wearing the shorts. "You need to be careful," she said. "You have to wear them with underwear, otherwise you may end up zipping up your hair too"

Since Lee, and her husband Ed, didn't have hash names, it was agreed to christen them. Pubic Zipp and Herr Zipp, respectively. Zipp was pleased with the new additions to her family.

Finally, Sex Pit called Stiffy in for always 'flagging' her. Previously, it was for the lack of lasagne. This week he brought her in as a stand in for Flat Phone, who was there at the circle.
